are in public life. For the answer to this week's "Who is it?"

The SPECTRE

by Cerf Andsand.

In a town like Carmel, where many residents wince at the sound of an axe biting into a tree, I wonder why people have become inured to the sound of screeching tires and the occasional crunching of fenders. Eighth Street, one of the few roads that run through to Scenic Drive, is heavily traveled, yet some of the more dangerous intersections are not provided with stop signs. Sooner or later someone will be injured or killed - an eventuality that should not be considered the price of keeping Carmel a village...

ADD PROPERTY IMPROVEMENTS.
Those blacktop ramps sloping around the patio at the Pine Inn have been replaced with a series of steps - no doubt for the convenience of high-heeled young ladies. The following comment was overheard recently when a young lady - too young ever to have seen Theda Bara - appraised the new steps momentarily, then turned to her escort and said: "Well, I must say I

Two excellent movies on the theme of racial prejudice were featured last week right across the street from one another in Monterey - a chance for comparison that may not occur anywhere else in the country. "Pinky," with Jeanne Crain, and "Lost Boundaries," starring Mel Ferrer, were shown at the State and Rio, respectively. My personal preference was for the latter picture, which has a cast of players relatively unknown to movie audiences. A spokesman for the Golden State Co., the theater chain that operates both movie houses, was unable to declare which film had the best response. He informed me that it was just a coincidence that they were run simultaneously, but each film was doing very well, thank you...

attended from the Monterey Peninsula were Charles Colburn, Guy Curtis,

Training Child to Eat Well

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

RECENTLY we considered ways of helping the tot three years old, whose meals have been a nightmare to him, to his mother, even to the entire family, to acquire a good appetite.

We observed that this child needs to learn between meals to accept unemotionally the word 'No' uttered in moderate tones, so that he may be prepared to accept this monosyllable in like fashion at mealtime. As in toilet training, so in eating, this apparent need of administering physical pain tends to hamper or prevent progress.

I emphasized the need of perfect poise and self-control by the parent in charge and of cooperative silence in respect to this child's eating, by the rest of the family; that the youngster should not be coaxed or commanded to eat nor be fed, but allowed to choose whether to eat or not and with his bare hands if he preferred. Very soon, of course, he will choose to use a spoon or fork.

Small Helpings

I emphasized simple sequence, one food at a time and very, very, very small helpings. If you give this poor eater several foods together he will incline to mix them at play and you to command and press him to eat.

Always let the youngster choose whether to eat or not and what to eat. Merely limit the choices to the very small portion of food you offer him or nothing. Make the portion small enough that he will be the more ready to eat it in order to get the next small portion of food. No seconds on any food until he has run the gamut of the several foods you will offer him in sequence. In the early stages the number of such foods might well be small and include some you are sure he will greatly enjoy. The smaller the portion of each food offered the less likely his resistance. It may be wise to make the amount of each at first no bigger than a lima bean, or only a few tablespoonfuls of milk.

When he clearly refuses one food offered let him get down. End his meal then and see that he can get no other food till the next meal. If he has learned properly to accept No as final when uttered in a moderate tone, the next food he may have might well be in sight before he finishes this one.

Variety of Foods

On successive meals it might be well to have a variety of foods somewhat different from those of the preceding meal. And if there is a food you know he violently dislikes you might avoid it for several meals or while you get him going and conforming to sequence. Of course, such problems might easily have been prevented if the basic principles involved had been observed. Let mothers of infants take note. (My bulletins, "Eating Problems" and "Stubbornness," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this paper.) I wish many more young mothers would study these bulletins.

If you have literally followed the foregoing with a tot two, three or four, for a week or two and see no progress, or if nausea should develop in the child, consult your physician.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Tito vs. Kremlin Struggle
No. 1 World Danger Spot?

Angry Politburo May Use Force Against Yugo Chief

SPECIAL TO THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON—Officials studying the world outlook view the Tito-Kremlin fight the most dangerous matter in the whole picture. It is generally agreed that Moscow cannot let Tito get away with his defiance. It sets a bad precedent, from Russia's point of view.

The methods to be pursued in driving Tito from power are the main problem—and the Kremlin has a bag of tricks to meet this situation.

Marshal Tito

However, unfortunately for the Russians, Tito was trained in Moscow and knows most of these tricks. The question then arises in Moscow about whether to take direct military action against Tito.

While a rational approach would discourage such a move, experts are by no means convinced that an angry Politburo would act rationally.

However, the end of the winter or early spring is regarded as the time when Moscow is most likely to face the decision whether to use the Red Army.

Then the western powers will be faced with the decision of whether they want to participate actively in the struggle, with all the implications, which are topped by the unleashing of atomic war.

● VOTE-GETTING STRATEGY—Democrats are planning to make big political capital of the lobbying investigation to be conducted by the special House committee headed by Rep. Frank Buchanan (D), Pennsylvania.

They figure the hearings, which will be held early in 1950, will provide fine fodder for the election year attacks on the "vested interests" who seek to sway Congress.

However, the Republicans plan to fight back every inch of the way. They have put their two biggest guns in the House—Reps. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, on the committee.

● BACON-BREAD BATTLE—Washington officials have made the surprise disclosure that former President Herbert Hoover opposed the break-saving campaigns the administration waged in connection with World War II and feeding prostrate Europe.

Hoover is said to have sided with Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D), New Mexico, former Agriculture secretary, who contends that the way to save is to eat bread.

Anderson explained that wartime bread saving came mostly from curtailed breakfast toast. But on cutting down on the toast, he continued, most Americans ate more eggs and bacon.

The senator declared that the experts have figured the amount of wheat—or other grain—that goes into two eggs and two strips of bacon is the equivalent of the wheat that should go into 40 slices of toast.

● NO WHITE HOUSE WEDDING IN SIGHT—The word passed around in top official circles is that Margaret Truman definitely has no wedding plans in mind. The president's daughter is reported interested only in her singing career and as having no romantic interests whatever.

One Cabinet officer, in fact, recently offered to wage $25 to $1 that Miss Truman would not get married in the next year.

● CABINET ATTENTION—Attorney General Howard McGrath who has reason to be one of the busier members of the Cabinet, took time out the other day to pay a special visit to Capitol Hill.

He did not call on a senator—there were only two or three in Washington at the time—but visited with the employees in the office of Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle. Biffle was out of the city, recuperating from an extended illness. However, the several women secretaries who handle Biffle's office routine and almost daily saw McGrath when McGrath was a senator, were on duty.

McGrath told the girls with a grin: "I just came up to say hello."

GOP WOMEN Choose Officers

Mrs. Frances Ballard, of Carmel, was elected president of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women during the annual meeting last week in the Carmel Woman's Club House. Mrs. Ballard was president last year of the League of Women Voters.

Other officers for the ensuing year are Mrs. Harry Gantt, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Raymond, second vice president; Mrs. E. H. Ewig, treasurer; Mrs. Gunnar Norberg, recording secretary, and Mrs. Gilbert Campbell, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Ballard is widely known in the legal profession. She practiced law for many years in Philadelphia and New York, and was the first woman graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

The annual convention of the California Council of Republican Women, northern division, which started Monday, at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley, was discussed by Mrs. Peggy Porter Marquard, a member of the local organization, and public relations chairman of the northern division of the California Council. Mrs. Marquard said speakers at the Berkeley meeting would include Governor Earl Warren, Lt. Governor Goodwin Knight, and Mrs. J. R. Farrington, national head

Household Hint

Be careful in using extension cords. Many fires have been caused from worn cords and from placing them improperly. Cords should never be placed where they will be stepped on or pinched, under heavy rugs or furniture. Never nail an electric cord to a wall. Keep cords free from knots or sharp bends which may break fine wires and damage the coverings.

Discerning Discs

by Henry G. Dunakin

Of great interest to all persons who follow the early symphonic structures is the release of two major representations from the Mannheim School. Just as a refresher we might recall that the little group of professional musicians who made up the orchestra of Mannheim, Germany, in the last half of the 18th century experimented in forms of music for full-sized concert performance. The fruit of their efforts was a three movement sinfonia pattern from which Haydn and Mozart were able to spring into their wonderful symphonies. The two works for discussion share many things in common: They are each called "Sinfonia," composed in the key of B Flat Major, performed by the Berlin State Orchestra under the direction of Walther Gmeindl, recorded in 1940, and released by Deutsche Grammophon. The subject matter of each, while not the same, is handled in almost identical manner. The one real difference is that J. Christian Bach and Christian Cannabich were their creators. Music lovers who appreciate straightforward melody, solid harmony, and a minimum of instrumentation will find these sets invaluable.

COLLECTORS' ITEM

English Columbia has re-issued the "Polonaise No. 1" by Franz Liszt. Louis Kentner has long been famous for his interpretations of this composer's piano works, and his reading of this flood of ornamentation is certain to stand alone. Here is a platter that is especially recommended to people who are tired of the more famous Rhapsodies.

There is a brand new recording of "The Fountains at the Villa D'Este" by the same composer (V). Jose Iturbi forsakes his cinema muse long enough to turn in a beautiful performance of this pleasant, though not important, piano poem.

IMPORTANT WARNING

An almost forgotten album of great worth loomed before my eyes the other day: "Italian Songs of the 17th and 18th Centuries," sung by Ezio Pinza (V). Immediately afterwards, Victor released its 1950 numerical catalog. This brings about the warning that if there is a particular album, especially of early music, that has been on your "must" list for some time, you had better start looking around for it. This company's editor must have had a field day, for he surely slashed left and right. No one seems to know his purpose; but the result can only mean that discophiles are quite likely to be without such things as Mozart's "Magic Flute" and the magnificent album of "Russian Liturgical Music" for many years to come.

STATEWIDE REAL ESTATE CONVENTION IN VALLEY

A statewide real estate luncheon meeting is slated for Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Carmel Valley Inn. The Carmel Board of Realtors will host the affair with Gladys Johnston as arrangements chairman. Peggy Porter Marquard, northern California women's division chairman, has announced that the guest speakers will be W. Ed Wallace, president of the California Real Estate Association, and State President-elect F. H. Lakey. Dr. Joseph Blacow, of Monterey Peninsula College, will also be on the program. Among the prominent guests will be Real Estate Commissioner D. B. Watson, State Secretary Eugene Conser, Women's Regional Vice President Eleanor Braniger, and several other state officials.

The real estate convention runs from Dec. 2-4 and will feature the following activities: An informal reception Friday afternoon at the Rancho Del Monte Country Club by Peggy Marquard and Paul Porter, a barbecue and flicker show the same evening at Holman's Guest Ranch, folk dancing and dinner-dancing Saturday night at the Carmel Valley Inn, breakfast Sunday at The Carousel and a showing of dancing, gaited and trick horses by Buford Clark, valley horse trainer. The show is open to the public and will be at noon, Dec. 3, at Holman's Corral. Assisting Mrs. Marquard with the convention are Herbert Brownell, Florence Lombard, Mrs. Clarence Holman, Les Dewar, Nelson Faulkner, Bob Mills and Bob Robinson.

SAN MAT. MPC TILT FRIDAY

All proceeds from the ticket sales for the San Mateo-MPC game, which will be played at the Monterey High School stadium tomorrow night, will go to the MPC Boosters Club to aid in its drive for $5,000 to purchase and install lights and a scoreboard in the new MPC stadium. It is anticipated that the largest crowd of the season will be on hand to see the Lobos tackle San Mateo, the prospective champions of the conference.

To help publicize the game, Tim Tyler, one of the Boosters, has donated a sound truck which will go through the business districts of Pacific Grove and Monterey tonight during the late shopping period. The truck will be operated by Malcolm McDonald, a student at the college.

The Homecoming Coronation Ball, second major dance of the season at MPC, will be held Saturday night in the Student Union. Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, who will be selected from the sophomore nominees: Jackie Miller, Rosemary Walters and Angie Melicia. Attendants are Jennifer Lloyd and Rose Cutino.

BIG DEALS AND WHISPERS

Carmel Valley was crackling with Real Estate news this week. Frank De Amaral sold 400 acres of his valley holdings to Henry Barnes. The sale was go-betweened by the Carmel Valley Realty Co.

At the same time, word began circulating quietly that Bing Crosby was negotiating to purchase Holman's Guest Ranch. A check with Realtor Harrison Godwin's office in Carmel scotched all such talk, but it was true that Big Bob Robinson and Little Bob Mills, managers of the upper valley resort ranch, had resigned to take over management of The Carousel.

They plan their big opening for Dec. 1, at which time The Carousel will feature good food and a showing of modern painting. Among the artists will be Jean Enez, Victor Di Gesu, D. Jay Owens, Henry Miller and Emil White.

TO CHOOSE CONTRACTOR

The Tularcitos School Board will decide, if possible, on the evening of Nov. 30, which contractor is to build the new school, and work will commence as soon as possible.

TOO-MUCH-TALKED-OF

Bids for the too-much-talked-of Carmel Valley road are expected to go out Dec. 5. The road bids are let for a period of only 10 days, so there is a chance the road might get to the building stage by the first of the year.

INDIANA VISITOR

Richard Baus, of South Bend, Ind., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Vi Baus, and his sister, Betty Ann Gilman.

'ABUILDING FAST

The Carmel Valley Community Chapel has a roof now and is 'abuilding so fast that it is now certain that the deadline of Jan. 1 will be met and services may even be held at Christmas.

FIRE

The fire siren made valleyites' hearts stand still Sunday afternoon. A brush fire started in Los Laureles, but it was quelled quickly and efficiently by the volunteer fire department.

3,000 FEET OF RUNWAY

A corporation has been formed to operate the Carmel Valley Airport for commercial airplanes as well as private planes, and a permanent board of directors will be chosen this week. Tirey Ford is the developer of the airport and he feels at this time that it should be expanded. Three thousand feet have been added to the runway so that DC-3's can be handled on a charter basis next summer. There will also be a small restaurant, flying school and taxi service.

NO AMBULANCE

Until the Carmel Valley First Aid Station becomes a first class station, which means a man on duty 24 hours, at least two men with advanced certificates and many more supplies than are now available, it is NOT entitled to an ambulance.

VERY IMPORTANT

A very important and necessary meeting took place last week at the Carmel Valley Inn. The Valley Property Owners' Association deserves the credit for calling the meeting to discuss the fire which took place in September. The State is to be congratulated in the kind of representative chosen to present their point of view regarding past, present and future fire fighting. DeWitt Nelson, state forester, gave a succinct summary of the state's responsibilities and duties concerning fire, and then concerned himself specifically with the fire of last September, which threatened the entire valley after starting out as a controlled burn. Mr. Nelson admitted that the attempt to create more and better grazing lands by controlled burns was indeed 'playing with fire' and not always successful, although two million acres of brush land have been successfully converted into useful grazing pasture by this method. In 1945, two laws were passed enabling the state to aid the rancher by using controlled burns. The rancher has several responsibilities in this arrangement both legal and moral, namely to set control lines, clear the field, reseed the fields, exercise due caution in regard to his neighbors' property and provide some men and equipment to supplant the state's aid.

Eye Openers on the Peninsula WITH Betsy Abbott

Told you last week about MERLE NORMAN and the wonderful line of cosmetics carried by that company. Didja know that you can now get them in Carmel? At the Powder Puff Beauty Salon. "Cappie" has her little booth there and would love to give you a free demonstration. She will analyse your skin...give you the right shade of powder (a sample)...right shade of lipstick and tell you how to keep your epidermis looking soft and sweet sixteen. For a complexion that is kept the way you want it, try MERLE NORMAN products. Talk to "Cappie" in the Powder Puff Beauty Salon...that's in the Aztec Patio. You'll really be glad you have found a better deal.

Everyone always talks about writing letters at Christmas...Have you about 50 friends and relatives who always require mail once a year? Well, here's a wonderful idea! What about mimeo-ing all that effort? Then all you do is enclose that letter in an envelope and you're set. After all, you always write the same thing anyhow! Call Monterey 8174 for further info. Perhaps at first glance this idea doesn't appeal. Mull it over...It could save you loads of time. The phone again...Monterey 8174.

Now for jewelry. Everyone loves that little (?) item on the 25th of December. If you look over the MONTEREY JEWELERS' selection of gems...everything from watches to match wedding ring sets...you'll be quite amazed at the reduction in price. MONTEREY JEWELERS has slashed prices on all their stock. Now is the time to lay away a gift. Remember that the smallest packages are sometimes the most exciting! Try the MONTEREY JEWELERS for exciting bargains...for surprise packages. They are on Alvarado and Franklin.

Ever think about spending a weekend away from home? No beds to make...no breakfast to arrange and no unpleasanties for a whole weekend. The MONTE VERDE APARTMENTS can arrange a swell and comfortable weekend for you...Beauty rest mattresses...marvelous view...attractive rooms...What more do you want? Call Carmel 71 or walk just three and a half steps south of Ocean on Monte Verde. You'll be rested on Blue Monday!

Didn't want you to forget that the MONTEREY HOBBY CENTER...next to the American Express office in Monterey (on Del Monte) has everything in toys...hobby making equipment and loads of ideas for Christmas goodies. It's a haven of ideas...spend hours in there just perusing! That's the MONTEREY HOBBY SHOP! Have you seen the bumpy train?

Have you heard that Indera Devi (the gal who teaches Yoga) is coming to the peninsula early in January? Just a reminder. You can watch the rest of the SPECTATOR for the exact date. She'll be at the Casa Munras. Wilma Campbell is sponsoring her and we hear that her teachings are unusual. The Devi is a fascinating person. Something different is always coming to our circle of enchantment.

About it...did you look in on the sale of suede long coats at the BAN BOX? Reduced to the lowest prices imaginable. A size 12 and two 14's. Now there's an idea for a grand Christmas stocking tuck-in. Look at 'em anyhow. That's the BAN BOX...and those are suede longies on sale!

Shimmering Date Dress

Taffeta pointed with green.

By VERA WINSTON

FABRIC SPINS a fine fashion story this season. The younger crowd, especially, dotes on date dresses that are fashioned of lovely, shimmering or brocaded fabrics, cut and handled on simple, casual lines. Petit point rayon jacquard taffeta in copper with tiny pin points of green makes this smart little date dress. The tiny sleeves have jutting cuffs which come from the turned-back notched neckline. A narrow belt circles the shaped, set-in waistband and the skirt is flared.

Words of the Wise

EMPTY ROAD

BY CONNIE FLAVIN

Everything was quiet. Trees stood silently in the fields and the road poured down the hill, its shoulders soft in the sun. Across the ravine, the cattle were sleeping in the warm grass, making a pattern in the field. The road ran along like a ribbon, often disappearing sharply and coming into view again.

It was so quiet, a field mouse could be heard scuttling between the furrows. In the still air the buzz of an insect created a strange vibration. A dry twig from an oak tree, falling, hit the wire of a broken fence, with the sound of a plucked string of a harp out of tune. Everything seemed to be waiting--then suddenly the sound of a horn broke the silence. A frantic wild blowing of a horn, unremitting, steady, insistent, an ugly sound intrusive in the quietness.

A cut like an open wound showed by the curve in the road. Wild oats, small scrub oaks, had been "pushed aside in ghastly disorder. Down through broken branches and spilling earth, down the hillside she lay in a heap, her arms and legs flung out in strange distorted angles. She was caught below the overturned car, her hair flattened out in the gold oats, golden hair soaked in blood until it looked like the rusty weeds growing nearby.

She was conscious of a great wheel spinning round and round above her head. She felt absolutely nothing but the turning of the wheel. God in heaven, would someone stop that horn? She was tired, weary and sick to her stomach. Her head was whirling and some fool was blowing the horn. The sound would vibrate through her body, shrieking in her ears and back up in her head, louder, louder.

She tried to scream--Stop it! Stop it! But no sound came to her lips. Just blood oozing between her teeth, pouring down from her brain, warm on her throat, warm between her breasts, warm and sticky.

Nothing worked together. She moved her hand to her face. It was wet with tears and childishly she patted her cheek. "Dear Christ," she begged, "let me think, all things are fading away but sound. Just the terrifying sound of a horn blowing--being blown by no one."

The wheels over her head stopped. She moved her hand down over her hips to see if she were there. Perhaps she was just sound. Just sound trying to say something. With great effort, she moved her fingers, and touched her bag, soft leather. She could see it lying in the dry grass, open, things spilling out. And then there were the letters, some one will come down the hill and find them.

She wished the horn would stop blowing. Now she was thinking. Her stiff fingers reached out to get them, they just touched the edge of her bag. She remembered now, she was going to burn them, tear them up, get rid of them, and going back to Jim. Oh God, Jim, she needed him so. She ached all over and the pain in her head made the world crack open, and she was falling in over the brink. But Jim would hold her, now she was safe.

The horn was blowing, let the horn blow and someone will come. It was better now, she could think. Someone would hear the horn, they would take her to Jim. No, first she must reach the letters. She lay beyond them, just beyond the shade, beyond everything. It was hot and her clothes stuck to her body. The blood was dry and sweet and a faint wind came up. Maybe the wind would blow the letters into her hand. She prayed for the wind--"Wanton wind, willful wind,"--no, she couldn't recall the words.

Then the horn stopped. No, No. Blow, blow over the hills and Jim will hear. Blow horn, blow. The wheels had stopped turning and up over her head a buzzard rolled around and around, slowly around--looking sharply down. Oh God, what did he want? The sun caught the blue black under the wings, slow still wings flying low.

The buzzard flew around and around, over her head, like a great black wheel. "Don't let me fall away. Jim, Jim, hold me. I must think, let me think, let me touch the letters, just touch them."

The blue black wings circled low, blue black until she saw nothing, heard nothing, felt nothing.

Letter

Dear Mr. Editor:

Last week's headline, "Kuster Gives Up Playhouse Restoration" gave me quite a start. Good heavens, no--Kuster has no intention whatever of giving up Playhouse restoration. On the contrary, my interest, and apparently everybody's, is as keen as ever. And any day now one of the several financing plans that have lately been under discussion among local business people and elsewhere is likely to take definite shape.

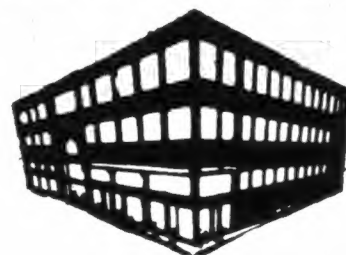

What I meant to convey in my recent letter to the bond subscribers, accompanying the refund of their money--and I am sorry the letter was not clear--was only that I had given up the idea of a bond issue for the financing of the Playhouse. I abandoned the bond plan because the great majority of prospective investors favored the purchase of stock and active participation in profits rather than the passive holding of long-term bonds at a lousish fixed interest rate.

Last week's SPECTATOR had the "abandoning all effort" in the matter. Please correct this misinterpretation. What I actually said, in substance, was that as a promoter I had proved a complete washout, and that I proposed to leave the initiative for a new financial plan to those more experienced in company promotions.

With confidence that the financial plan now being formulated will lead to the early reconstruction of the Playhouse, enlarged and improved and destined to be a standing credit to this community, I am

Yours sincerely,
Edward G. Kuster

The Foto Murals Co., of Los Angeles, is featuring pictures of this area in its national advertising to the decorator and home designer trade. Perhaps they consider us just a suburb of Los Angeles, but in any case, our seascapes and landscapes are the murals being featured. One in particular interested me because it is the same scene that greets the eye thru the picture window in Mr. Raymond Rudolph's home in Pacific Grove. It is the rugged and beautiful seascape along Cabrillo Point. Mr. Rudolph is the owner of the home furnishings store of the same name.

"DANCEIETRY" FOR VETERANS

Miss Dorothy Breeding, operator of the Monterey, Palo Alto and Burlingame Arthur Murray Studios has been active since 1945, in a voluntary service to veterans' hospitals which merits much applause. She and her instructors give their time generously to the work of rehabilitating amputees, the blind, and psychiatric cases as well.

est to learn. Great kindness, sympathy and understanding are required - but she and her girls enjoy every moment.

Their work with the men in the psychiatric wards must be fascinating. Men who seem as tho they might never smile again, become cheerful and happy many are speeded on their road to recovery. Miss Breeding's therapeutic help in Ward 17 (psycho) at Palo Alto's V. A. Hospital, is perhaps the most remarkable of all.

Dorothy and her instructors worked first at Mare Island Naval Hospital, then at Dibble, in Menlo Park, and now they're busy at Palo Alto. Their splendid accomplishments must be immensely be that of a sculptor and a painter "in action." Apparently these will be extroverts who enjoy having people watch them work.

"Little Bob" will supervise the potables, and "Big" Bob will look after the comestibles. That sounds real peachy, but what I gotta try is the Sunday Brunch they're planning, with Australian steaks and Russian Eggs! Hope the Bobs won't precipitate an international crisis!

LEARNING TO WALK BY DANCING

Through dancing, Miss Breeding helps the men to restore self-confidence, relax their minds, relieve nervous tension and banish shyness. Her successful methods have brought her great commendation from the Red Cross and Veterans Administration.

Amputees are taught to fox-trot, rumba and tango. They become proficient in the new art of walking, thru learning to dance. It rids them of their greatest fear - that of taking steps backward. One veteran was blind and wore two artificial limbs - he learned to pivot in less time than it takes most men who have all their faculties.

Miss Breeding says that while the blind are the most demanding on the teacher's ingenuity, they are the quick-gratifying and rewarding to them. As the war fades farther into the past, many of us are inclined to forget about the men to whom the war is still a tragic reality. Dorothy Breeding hasn't forgotten.

YOUR TAXES

BY CHARLES W. FLANAGAN

MANAGER OF THE MONTEREY COUNTY
TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION

MONTEREY CITY

There is no other city in California which can be compared directly to Monterey. The best that can be done is to take two cities with shipping and industry and add a resort-residential city and then use the average.

In the same population bracket (10,000 to 20,000) there are three cities which were excluded because of their low assessed valuation per capita: Oxnard, $658; El Cerrito, $880; and National City, $579. In addition, San Raphael, included in the study, is a county seat and therefore not truly comparable to Monterey.

In the following comparison, the average is therefore regarded on the best index available.

	Population	Assessed Value per Capita	Per capita Expenditures 47-48	Tax Rate	Adjusted Tax Rate
Monterey	14,801	1,156	41.68	2.2169	2.2169
Pittsburg	11,156	1,013	41.08	1.35	2.092
San Rafael	11,407	1,666	31.34	1.13	1.412
Oceanside	10,698	771	37.14	1.80	2.16
AVERAGE	11,087	1,150	36.47

CITY OF PACIFIC GROVE

This was formerly a religious center but is now primarily a residential city. Five cities, which are in themselves minor but well contained centers of activity, have been selected as comparable. Their population range, with one exception, is below Pacific Grove - otherwise they have much in common.

	Population	Assessed Value per Capita	Per Capita Expenditures 47/48	Tax Rate	Adjusted Tax Rate
Pacific Grove	8,843	863	28.87	1.88	1.88
Concord	6,633	827	13.90	1.00	1.50
Escondido	5,930	819	26.96	2.46	2.46
Paso Robles	6,364	1,026	24.92	1.20	1.56
Mountain View	5,874	864	26.13	1.60	1.60
Santa Paula	8,986	871	41.83	1.80	2.70
AVERAGE	6,757	881	27.82

Above are the initial plans for a proposed subdivision fronting the ocean just south of the entrance to Carmel River. James W. Moore, of Carmel, and Kenneth F. Jones, of San Francisco, are the developers.

As may be seen in the upper lefthand corner of the subdivision map, the developers plan a type of country club hotel for residents of the subdivision, of which the northern 100 acres will be developed first.

The property is bordered on the north by the Carmel River bottomland and on the east by State Highway 1. Hugh W. Comstock, of Carmel, has been asked to build the first house, in order to set the architectural tone.

While the property is almost invisible from State Highway 1, it commands a view of the Pacific that stretches from the cliffs of Pebble Beach to Point Lobos.

MARTIN Named Managing Ed.

The appointment of William H. (Bill) Martin as managing editor of the SPECTATOR was announced this week by Michael Purnell Gould, editor-publisher. Mr. Martin has been a member of this publication's staff since March of this year.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, in 1924, Mr. Martin received his education at the University of Southern California, where he was commissioned a line officer in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He served as a tactical radar officer aboard the battleship Pennsylvania and, following the war, married the former Miss Shirley Clare, of Seattle.

Upon his release to inactive duty, he began his newspaper career with the Springfield Sun in Springfield, Ohio. In August of 1947 he returned to California to take over as city editor of the Beverly Hills Bulletin, which is now owned by Will Rogers, Jr. For one year prior to joining the SPECTATOR he was a staff correspondent in the Los Angeles office of Fairchild Publications.

In making known the promotion, Mr. Gould explained that as editor-publisher he will continue to direct overall policy, but that day-to-day editorial operations will be handled by Mr. Martin.

October was such a swell month, weather wise, it's too bad we can't get our order filled for a second helping of the same.

DEL MONTE CO. CHANGES

John B. Morse, president of Del Monte Properties Company, announced this week that two long-time executives of the company, Henry Tiedemann and Murray Mathews, were elected vice presidents of the corporation at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors in San Francisco.

Mr. Tiedemann, who will continue as treasurer as well as vice president, joined the Pacific Improvement Company, predecessor of the present Del Monte Properties Company, in Merced in February, 1911, and in November, 1916, he came to Del Monte as auditor when S. F. B. Morse was made president of the firm. He became treasurer in 1925.

Murray Mathews joined the company in July, 1916, in the Pacific Grove office of the Pacific Improvement Company and in February, 1925, he became auditor of the Del Monte Properties Company. When the Navy took over Hotel Del Monte as a Pro-Flight School in December, 1942, Mathews became operating manager for the school, and in 1947 he was named comptroller of the company, in which capacity he will continue.

His home is on the Del Monte Fairways and he is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, the Fraternity Club of San Francisco, and the Controllers Institute of America. He also holds a State Public Accounting License.

Del Monte Properties Company also has announced the selection of William H. Hubbard to replace H. H. P. Siemsen as manager of Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach. Mr. Siemsen has resigned his position after 12 years with the corporation. He was manager of the lodge, the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Beach Club when he resigned this week. He and Mrs. Siemsen plan an extended vacation before making known their future plans.

William H. Hubbard, Stanford graduate, has held positions with the St. Francis Hotel and Yosemite National Park, and is resigning his position as assistant manager of Hotel Mark Hopkins to return to the employ of the Del Monte Properties Company where he was assistant manager of Hotel Del Monte under the late Carl Stanley.

He will assume his new duties as manager of Del Monte Lodge on Dec. 1, and will have over-all charge of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Beach Club, as well as the lodge.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Al Coons, city manager of Pacific Grove, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Mr. Coons, a native Californian, was born in Palo Alto in 1906, but has lived in cities all over the State, as his father was associated with the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in various districts. After graduating from high school in Woodland, Mr. Coons enrolled at the University of California, receiving a BS in civil engineering. Upon graduation, he was for a short time a surveyor for P.G. & E., but he soon moved on to become a resident engineer with University of California at Davis - a position he held for 10 years. He also did a four-year stint as city engineer of Davis, the town in which he also met his wife, the former Miss Lou Connor, of Boise, Idaho, who was visiting her sister when Mr. Coons first met her. It was four years ago that the City of Pacific Grove got in touch with Mr. Coons regarding a then vacant chair behind the city manager's desk. Mr. Coons had been recommended by the League of California Cities after having sharpened his knowledge of city operation by taking a course in public administration through the International City Managers Association. His four years in PG have "sold" him on the Monterey Peninsula. The Coons' two children, Jimmy, 12, and Susan, 6, attend Pacific Grove schools. Mr. Coons was 1948 president of PG Rotary and is a director of the local Red Cross, Community Chest and the Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association. He also is a member of the Commonwealth Club of California, International City Managers Association and the American Society of Engineers. He likes to fish and play golf, but, as Grove residents are well aware, he is extremely busy these days - parking meters and zoning changes are in the air.

Yaltah Menuhin To Perform Here On DEC. 3rd

Yaltah Menuhin, pianist, the youngest member of one of the nation's "first families of music" will be heard in Carmel for the first time when she gives her recital with Israel Baker, violinist, in the Sunset Auditorium, on Saturday night, December 3, presented by the Denny-Watrous management.

Enchantingly beautiful, amazingly gifted, this youngest of the Menuhin family was carefully guarded from the concert stage by her parents, who thought that Yehudi Menuhin and Hepzibah, the older sister, were enough artists for one family. Those who heard the young Yaltah privately have told glowing stories of her superb playing, while Pierre Monteux, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony, who has known her since she was a child in Paris, declares himself devoted to her, and she is playing with the San Francisco Symphony in San Jose next season.

Yaltah Menuhin has played extensively in Europe, toured with her brother Yehudi in the East, but remained a mystery in northern California, where she has never before consented to play.

Israel Baker, violinist, has toured with Stokowski, played under Toscanini and many of the great conductors.

DOGS TO BE LADIES-GENTS

Discussion of a proposed obedience training class for dogs, at a meeting last week of Salinas Valley Kennel Club, resulted in the decision to start such a class immediately after the first of the year. The class will be open to all interested persons in this vicinity, whether or not they are members of the club.

It was stressed that obedience training is not primarily intended to develop proficiency in the show ring, although graduates of two previous classes sponsored by the kennel club have made notable records in obedience trials. Training in obedience is of great value in the everyday life of the dog and makes for easily-controlled pets. Date on which classes will start will be determined as soon as registrations are completed. Advance applications for admission are being taken by Fay Owyong at Karl's Pet Shop, 550 E. Alisal St., Salinas, who will also furnish full details about the course to all who want more information.

CHEST DRIVE COLLECTS LESS THAN 70 PERCENT

When the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest drive closed officially on Monday, it was reported by Chest headquarters that only 68 percent of the $72,000 goal had been reached. Col. H. P. Kayser, chairman of the drive, asked persons who have not been contacted by volunteer workers to send in their contributions to the Community Chest, Box 843, Monterey.

CARMEL LIBRARY OPENS AT 4 p.m.

The opening hour of the Harrison Memorial Library in Carmel was changed to 4 p.m. during the present construction on the wing. The library normally opens at 11 a.m., but Librarian Elizabeth Niles said work on the new wing causes too much noise during the early hours.

SCOUTS TO CAMP AT YOSEMITE PARK

Annual winter snow camp, operated by the local Monterey Bay area Boy Scout Council, will again be held at Yosemite National Park Jan.

6, 7 and 8, Walter Tavernetti, chairman of the council's camping and activities committee, announced today. The three-day encampment is made possible through the cooperation of the Yosemite Park and Curry Company who provide special housing, meals, and other facilities.

Traditionally, this is a privilege camp for selected Boy Scouts and Explorers. To be eligible for attendance, a scout must be at least first class rank or equivalent explorer rank, be at least 13 years of age and not have reached 18th birthday, have been a scout for at least one year and have satisfactory record of participation in the advancement and camping programs of his troop. Scout leaders' and parents' approval are necessary, in addition to certification of physical fitness.
